BNSF Logistics Wins Silver in the 2014 Brandon Hall Group Excellence Awards

BNSF Logistics, a leader in innovative, flexible and value driven logistics solutions, won a coveted Brandon Hall Group silver award for excellence in the Best Custom Content category. The award specifically recognizes BNSF Logistics for its successful eLearning course, Intermodal 101. BNSF Logistics' win was announced on September 9, 2014. A comprehensive list of winners is located at the Brandon Hall awards page.

BNSF Logistics' Intermodal 101 e-learning course provides the opportunity for learners to take an interactive journey where they are introduced to "Joe," a fictitious BNSF Logistics employee who falls on desperate times because he was unable to talk about intermodal with his customer. Learners try to avoid Joe's mistakes as they react to real-world sales, logistics, and customer service challenges. As they progress through the challenges, learners are brought up to speed on the basics of intermodal transportation – what it is, how it works, what the benefits are, and when it is an ideal solution for our customers. "Intermodal 101 is the first level in a series of e-learning courses designed to educate employees into the deep multi-modal expertise that BNSF Logistics is known for throughout the industry," said Dale VanSickle, Manager of Learning & Development.

The BNSF Logistics Learning & Development team is an internal group dedicated to the continued on-going education and training of our employees, in turn allowing our employees to provide the best customer service possible. "We're honored to be recognized by the Brandon Hall Group," said Craig Parrish, Vice President of Human Resources, "This award affirms our commitment to develop compelling content that aligns our employee needs with our strategic business objectives. Training courses such as this are developed from a collaborative effort involving our learning and development professionals and operational subject-matter experts."

"I'm honored to recognize this group of elite organizations with phenomenal programs across HCM functions. The winners truly exemplified excellence around the critical business dimensions across the award categories, including a high standard of performance in their organization and demonstrated clear, measurable business results through these innovative programs," said Rachel Cooke, COO of Brandon Hall Group.

"Our company is proud to receive submissions from organizations all over the world that have demonstrated major successes across their HCM business areas," said Brandon Hall Group CEO Mike Cooke. "The beauty of our new HCM Excellence Conference is that some of these elite executives will now be able to share lessons learned through panel discussions, Q&A discussions, executive roundtables and peer-to-peer networking. We are delighted to be able to share the winners' insights and case studies with a larger circle of colleagues."
